 Subject: Flicker announcement
 Date: Wednesday, February 10, 1999 8:59 AM

I am please to announce that Clare Tully will be joining our staff as Senior Vice President for Marketing and Communications.

Clare has been with NBC News for the past ten years, most recently as Director of Business Development. She was responsible for generating revenue from existing NBC assets by launching and overseeing a home video line, negotiating book publishing (including Tom Brokaw's new book The Greatest Generation), and domestic cable deals. She also developed NBC News' merchandising, educational and other ancillary market opportunities, pursued new business opportunities for MSNBC Cable, negotiated co-production deals for News pilots and specials, negotiated global licensing deals with wire service agencies, and oversaw NBC Enterprises' international distribution of News programs. She was involved in the acquisition of Super Channel and the launch of NBC Asia, as well as reviewed and approved all program license agreements for NBC International.

Prior to working at NBC News, Clare practiced law, specializing in labor relations.

As an added benefit, Clare is also a birder, and is surrounded by ornithologists. Her husband is a professional ornithologist who has worked with Steve Kress, and her brother-in-law, until just recently, was the director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory.

Clare will begin March 8, and I hope you will all make her feel welcome.
