

My BROTHER's Treasure Box

This is what my brother found when he opened the cigar box that he had kept for two years. The contents are as follows; four reed pens, cut in New Jersey, pensils and aged brushes of various sorts, one silver point, one Franklin Delano Roosevelt #type cigarette holder, one fiddler crab, one electric drill bit, one feather covered steak knife, one stone chisel, one file, four Scripto no smudge erasers, one empty Scripto no smudge eraser box, Three unidentifiable bird feet, seven tubes of water color paint, one pair of butterfly tweezers, one water color encrusted pen, one dragon fly without tail or head or legs, one beetle head, one scarab, one grasshopper leg (mexican), one cufflink, one third place journalism medal, one used paper match, one exacto blade and two pens, one stick of red chalk, one spanish American war cross, one cuckoo foot, three bird wings, several pesos in Mexican money, one nail file, one piece of black plastic encribed 'made in Germany' — piece unidentiyable, wood carving blades, one envelope of glass bird eyes, one pressure bandage clip, one muscket flint, one horned dung beetle corpse, one identification bracelet, several dried beetle corpses, and one dead stink bug. Thus you have seen what is in my brothers cigar box. You ought to see what is in his desk!
