

Dec. 10, 1992

This division of the sacred square is fascinating especially as it relates temples and other structures by right or division lines. Try to study this in depth.
(over)

I think it is possible that this principle is working in the eastern half of the square as if it were another square due to its restricted and specialized nature as the enclave of tribal origins and present ^{blood} nobility