and after performing some rites on the top of the platform make a descent, and this is important, on the eastern stairs. The first structure that he encounters is the platform of the skulls - a kind of earth altar. Yet the fact that this skull motif lacks the customary crossbones element in other words the quincunx of the four cardinal points plus the center may indicate that we are in the presence not of a terrestrial shrine but of a celestial one, a monument of starry significance or rather a place of the deified ancestors, the ghost warriors.

According to my plan and model ~~are~~ we are close to Huactlampa the temple of Mictlantecuhltli, often described as a place of descending in the north.
