ST Temple

modeled in spring time

I was looking at P155 of this book and thinking about my model of the Temple of Xochipilli.

I thought of the north-south seasonal path of the sun, which when it is northern most before the solstice which reverses its motion puts it in the summer time.

The ^{winter} equinox places it (the sun) in the middle of the Temple of Hueyloquetl as it moves south toward spring time. The first temple it encounters is that of Xochipilli.
